the Government had ordered a market intervention operation for procurement of 10,000 MT of natural rubber during 1997 by STC. This procurement has been further extended in May, 1998 to an additional quantity of 20,000 MT.

(c) In order to discourage indiscriminate import of used tyres, a minimum C.I.F. value restriction has been imposed on import of used tyres by the Government of India.

As Polyurethane is a material of versatile properties and also the quantity of polyurethane being imported is mil substantial enough to pose a threat -to rubber/latex, total ban on its import is not desirable and would affect the competitive advantage of the domestic foam industry.

(d) For providing a remunerative price to the rubber growers, the Ministry of Finance has already undertaken a study into the cost of production of Natural Rubber with a view to revising the Benchmark Price for rubber. The STC, who have been directed in May, 1998 to procure 20,000 MT of Natural Rubber at the prevailing market price not exceeding Rs. 34/per kg., have been directed to export the procured rubber and/or sell it only to the. Advance Licence Holders.
